Excent is authorized for representation in all tax proceedings (such as assessment, collection, and tax remission proceedings) for federal and cantonal income, profit, wealth, and capital taxes, real estate gains tax, lump-sum taxation, and withholding tax before the cantonal tax authorities (including appellate authorities), provided that there is no personal obligation to participate in the proceedings, such as the obligation to personally sign the tax return.

Based on this power of representation, tax returns, requirements, assessments, decisions, invoices, reminders, and all other orders from the tax authorities (e.g., orders regarding provisional invoices, liability shares, security, initiation of subsequent and criminal tax proceedings, administrative fines) will be sent exclusively to the authorized person. In the assessment procedure, the authorized representative has the same rights and obligations as the taxpayer(s) who signed the document.

The power of attorney applies to all current and future tax proceedings relating to the tax periods or tax years 2019 ff. and until written revocation by the taxpayer or until the representative resigns from the mandate. Special procedural requirements for representation (e.g., proceedings before administrative courts, civil proceedings, debt enforcement proceedings) remain reserved.
